

Music maestros in tune

SHARE gems in your musical collection and discover new ones at Musically Speaking, a non-profit organisation set to open its second club in Mt Gravatt.

Mt Gravatt East couple Peter and Robbie Gieseemann founded the club in 2011 as a way of sharing their passion for music with like-minded people.

Now, Musically Speaking is about to celebrate its 50th meeting and is gearing up to open a second club in Mt Gravatt on May 16.

“We’re very much aiming ourselves at everyday people who want to expand their music collection, have fun and meet new people,” Mr Gieseemann said.

“We’re not aiming for high brow.”

The club holds twice monthly meetings where members give presentations that tie in with themes, such as Music at the Movies. There are also music games, reviews, trivia and outings.

Musically Speaking meets at Upper Mt Gravatt State School.

➔ Visit musicallyspeaking.org

GROWING COLLECTION: Peter and Robbie Gieseemann are celebrating the 50th meeting of Musically Speaking.